The Tupelo Visitors Center is the perfect starting point for any trip to the city where anything is possible. From interactive exhibits that highlight the city’s top attractions and a collective timeline of Tupelo’s rich history, to displays focused on Elvis’ childhood in Tupelo as told like never before, the Tupelo Visitors Center will fully prepare visitors for exploring this unique, southern town.
From Dusk ‘til Dawn
Many fans like to return to the Elvis birthplace at dusk after the attraction has closed for a peaceful moment on the property. All of the exhibits, except the gift shop, theater, and the museum, are accessible, at least for exterior viewing, after dark.
Exhibits
These exhibits are all located on the grounds of the Elvis birthplace and viewable without charge:

- Walk of Life

Tupelo is proud to offer a shopper’s paradise with a diverse collection of one-of-a-kind shops, outlet stores, pottery shops, antique shops, unique bookstores, consignment boutiques, and a regional mall. Three of our most distinct shopping areas are historic Downtown Tupelo, Midtown District, and the area surrounding the Barnes Crossing District, but the shopping is great all over, so hit all the nooks and crannies, and you are sure to find a shop you love.
It’s a no-brainer to seek out music while in the birthplace of Elvis! Ask a local – we all keep our ear to the ground for the beat of the drum – or visit tupelo.net and the events calendar for up-to-date live music listings. Below is a quick guide to live music schedules to get you started:

A 2,500 square-foot interpretive center laying out the history of the Battle of Tupelo/Harrisburg and the Battle of Brice’s Crossroads is located near a 1,200-acre battleground where the Battle of Brice’s Crossroads was fought. The Interpretive Center is a great place to begin to explore the last two stands made by soldiers in Mississippi during the Civil War. From the center, you can visit many sites interpreted throughout the region that lay out the two battles including battlefields, cemeteries, and trails.

Oren Dunn City Museum/Tupelo Veterans Museum
689 Rutherford Road
662-841-6438
orendunnmuseum.org

Admission

In the telling of Tupelo’s history, the Oren Dunn Museum captures the essence of the American story in rural America. From a vintage village, including an original dogtrot cabin to year-round educational programming, visitors at the museum are invited to relive the history of a community named the “First All-America City.” Tupelo Veterans Museum, housed inside the city museum, displays a private collection compiled to remember the wars fought by Americans. Chronologically, the museum’s treasures begin with the Civil War and feature a document signed by Abraham Lincoln, a pistol, a soldier’s diary, and items soldiers carried in their pockets.

Free admission

The Mississippi Hills National Heritage Area covers a 30-county region affectionately known as the “Hill Country.” Culture is heavily influenced by the intersection of the Appalachian Region and the Mississippi Delta, while the Hills has its own cultural persona evident throughout the region. The center displays little-known facts about Mississippi legends and offers an abundance of information on members throughout the region. It’s your best stop to understand the Mississippi Hills National Heritage Area.
Tupelo Hardware Company
114 West Main Street
662-842-4637
tupelohardware.com
Free admission
Founded in 1925, by the same family that owns it today, Tupelo Hardware Company played a pivotal role in music history. In January 1945, Gladys and Elvis Presley entered Tupelo Hardware to look for Elvis a birthday present. The story goes that Elvis wanted a rifle, and being very protective of her young charge, Gladys refused. It is said that Elvis reacted quite loudly to the refusal, and a store employee and Presley family friend reached into a case and brought out a guitar and handed it to the boy, hoping to calm him down. Elvis loved the guitar and agreed to purchase it instead of the rifle.

bcsarena.com

Admission
This 10,000-seat venue plays host to everything from major music events like Elton John and Tim McGraw to public ice skating and meetings and trade shows.
Heritage Trails
The Heritage Trails Enrichment Program preserves Tupelo’s rich history and tells the city’s story through interpretations of major sites on a Chickasaw Native American Trail, Civil War Trail, and Civil Rights and African-American Heritage Trail.

Music Trails
The Mississippi Blues Trail marks a unique journey in the land that spawned the single most important root source of modern popular music. The Mississippi Country Music Trail marks the heritage of country music, a direct descendant of the Blues. Trail markers at Elvis Presley Birthplace and the Shake Rag community at the Tupelo Visitors Center recount Tupelo’s heritage.
